The Story of Diarmuid and Gráinne Poem

Long, long ago, according to a great myth and legend, Gráinne, daughter of the High King of Ireland, was the most beautiful woman in the land. Fionn, leader of the Fianna, had asked for her hand in marriage. Her father had agreed and a party was arranged. At this party, Gráinne saw Diarmuid, one of the warriors of the Fianna, and fell immediately in love with him. She cast a spell on him and they escaped the party. They ran all over Ireland, hiding from Fionn and the Fianna.
